0446 02 Box truck (International Harvester)

0528 05 Refrigerated semi-trailer (Scania R420 Topline)

WIKING's collection of new models for April span an impressive variety of themes: There is the life-saving Audi Q7 which appears as an emergency doctor's vehicle from the Netherlands. Another vehicle that is also bang up-to-date but which is used for long-distance journeys right across Europe is the refrigerated semi-trailer with the Scania R420 Topline tractor unit. The revitalised Hanomag-Henschel as a low-loader truck-trailer combination along with the International Harvester Loadstar making its debut as a box truck will certainly arouse feelings of nostalgia.

0935 04 Police - BMW 501 N-gauge 1:160

These are joined by the compact Fiat 600 – now with closed folding sunroof – and the Ford FK 1000 as the “TSF” fire engine with portable pump which was once a familiar sight on our roads. The Mercedes-Benz 207 D appears for the first time as an armoured police vehicle. Fans of established WIKING classics will be particularly interested in the new historical fire service accessory pack. This contains a wider range of accessories suitable for use with precious models from bygone decades so if a collector is missing any individual parts, it is now possible to produce an authentic reconstruction of the original vehicle once again – thus fulfilling a long-held wish of WIKING enthusiasts! And another newcomer to the range in N-gauge is the classic BMW 501 which WIKING has produced in the form of a police vehicle.

The 1970s have been brought to life with WIKING's model upgrades for April: two youngtimers join the range in the form of the red Manta GT/E and the miami blue Audi 50, both displaying the most impressive level of fine detailing. The third member of this contemporary trio is the silver VW Golf I cabriolet which was once part of the long-standing era of the Karmann Beetle cabriolet. A decade earlier, the picture-perfect gold Opel Commodore A coupé and the Mercedes-Benz L 319 in the livery of "Bild" were familiar sights on our roads. The legendary MAN "Pausbacke" as a box body semi-trailer truck in the livery of body manufacturer Ackermann along with the VW Beetle 1200 with trailer in the colours of Schlotmann also graced the roads in the 1960s. Back then, the Borgward Isabella was already being phased out while the robust Rosenkranz Demag crane truck for everyday use was there to give a helping hand during the final years of the economic miracle. The latest model upgrades also include the imposing Claas CORTO 8100 F large-scale mower and the construction site set which rejoin the range.
