The long-established model manufacturer WIKING remains faithful to its brand legacy with the addition of the popular VW T3 double cab! The interesting thing is that WIKING was already planning a model of this "Bulli" during the time of its production, but implementation of the "Doka" was rejected and the blueprint ended up in the archives. Appropriate for the summer of classics, other new additions include the legendary Magirus Sirius as an attractive flatbed truck, the Fiat 600 with an open sun-roof and the Trabant 601 S as a fire service vehicle. Youngtimer enthusiasts can look forward to a MAN tank truck from the 1970s in the popular ARAL colours. There is also new high-tech agricultural equipment: the Kuhn RW 1800 baler features rotating attachments and a movable platform, on which the bales of hay can be placed. The Jumbo Combiline series from Pöttinger provided the idea for an innovative agricultural machine: the 1:87 model of type 7210D is both an ensilage and forage trailer. The last of the new models is the fire brigade Unimog U 411 in scale 1:160.

The VW Porsche with its impressive contemporary racing design,
