WIKING now presents two emergency vehicles of the latest generation: the multi-purpose boat from Lehmar equipped for fire-fighting and the 1:87 scale VW Amarok as a police car. The model scenery is enhanced by the VW The Beetle convertible in the autumnal closed version and the construction materials set, an ideal accessory for the 1:87 model world. Examples of models based on historic WIKING forms are the "MAN Pausbacke" as a cement truck and the Ford FK 2500 as a Technical Relief vehicle. The International Harvester Loadstar makes its debut as a beverage truck and the Magirus 235 D as a flatbed truck with high sides in the original IAA design from 1963. The VW T5 GP will be introduced as a police patrol car in N-gauge. And for the constantly growing number of fans of the 1:32 scale WIKING presents a model of the Arion 640 – the 150 HP flagship of the Arion 600 series from Claas. Wiking-Modellbau GmbH & Co. It's back! By popular demand, WIKING is now offering a reprint of the historical street map. And there's more: the reverse features a historic advertising motif. Numerous attractive classic vehicles get a variation to match the contemporary design of the street map! They include two exquisite sports limousines, the Mercedes-Benz 250 SE Coupé and the Borgward Isabella Coupé, as well as the VW T1 as a Claas service vehicle of the 1960s. This was also the era of the Hanomag L28 as a light petrol truck and the Krupp flatbed truck in Murrmann colours – ideal enhancements to the street map, which is packaged in a tube with historic WIKING address labels. Another surprising feature that once again shows WIKING's attention to historic detail is the miniaturisation of single containers as accessory packaging, following the example of American transatlantic lines. As a promotion vehicle "Feldschlösschen" there is the Citroën 2 CV, while the VW Golf VI is offered for the first time in trendy matte black.
