The latest generation of the Rosenbauer AT fire trucks in daylight luminous red completes the WIKING program in October. In addition, the Fendt Katana 65 with grass pick-up is a real winner. The Unimog U 20 is celebrating its premiere as fire service specialist. WIKING takes an automotive look back with the Renault R4 which has a sun roof. For the first time, the MAN 415 drives up as a furniture trailer truck in the colors of the "Deutsche Möbelspedition", while the Mercedes-Benz LP 321 has gotten a lattice structure in the back. Additionally, the ever popular stacking boxes are available as accessories. N-scale fans can look forward to the VW Passat B6 as a police car. What the 1:32 scale has to show for itself in terms of functionality is strikingly demonstrated by the John Deere 7430: The front loader in municipal colors can be converted and used for four different purposes!

Beautiful classics – updating the range of models with lots of contemporary verve is what makes this possible! The VW "Bulli" of the first generation with a colorful flower power look is brought into the WIKING program – the "peace generation" of the late 1960s sends its love. The Mercedes-Benz 1413 as flatbed trailer in the colors of "Maschinenfabrik Esslingen" are just as much model fun as the Lanz Bulldog and coal trailer, which have been miniaturized, modeled on the historical prototypes of

0949 03 Flatbed truck (Magirus) N-gauge 1:160

"Berliner Hedwigshütte". The Hanomag K55 bulldozer adds to the series of miniatures modeled on the "Emil Bölling" truck fleet operating in the Ruhr area as does the Mercedes-Benz LP 1620, a trailer truck bearing the "Mollerus" company colors. The hump-backed Taunus, the Land Rover and the Hanomag R16 round off the range of classics. Also coming are the communal Mercedes-Benz Sprinter and the WIKING "MAGAZIN 2014", which features in this issue the chronology of "DMS" and "Conferm", the moving company, as well as the WIKING project of Büssing 12000.
