Models of the "Fire Service" set

The French tricolor sends its regards – WIKING presents three classics: The Renault R4 is a winner with its sun roof as well as a “fourgonette” with ladder opening – naturally, constructed so it’s movable. Just as functional, the Citroën HY comes as a sales vehicle with a hinged sales stand. The Allgaier tractor, the BMW 2002 with a new bumper and the Mercedes-Benz 280 SE as the luxury taxi cab of the 1960s likewise make their debuts. WIKING, as the pioneer

0990 88 "Fire Service" set of automotive container transportation in 1:87, now continues this tradition with two up-to-the-minute model developments from tank container logistics. Both the 20-foot version and the swap tank container drive up on a trailer based on the prototype of Schmitz Cargobull. “Mercedes-Benz im Einsatz!” is the title of a new model series that WIKING has miniaturized no less than an entire quartet with youngtimer qualities.

0807 11 Citroën ID 19

0791 03 Ford Granada

0837 04 Rolls Royce Silver Shadow

0859 05 Flatbed trailer (MB L 6600)

0797 15 VW T1 panel truck

0435 06 Box truck (MAN TGL)

0882 48 Tank semi-truck (MAN Pausbacke)

0315 01 VW T2 Bus

7342 01 Lockheed Super Constellation

0864 34 Police - VW Beetle 1200

A fervent dream of many WIKING collectors has finally come true! The model maker has revitalized the historical forms of the Lockheed Super Constellation in a scale of 1:200. The “Super Connie” in the colors of Lufthansa is considered still today a true WIKING milestone. The MB L 6600 trailer in the colors of Mäuler and the MAN Pausbacke as a Fina tank trailer, which wrote truck history a little later, also fit right into the late 1950s. Classics such as the Police

Beetle 1200, the VW T1 based on the “Nordkabel” prototype, and the T2 transporter, based on the “Rosenkranz” original, as well as the youngtimer Ford Granada A have been added to the program. The Citroën ID 19 and the Rolls Royce Silver Shadow bank on sedan understatement. The MAN TGL appears for the first time in the design of “Hansetrans”. N-gauge model fans can add the Schaeff HR18 mini-excavator and the agricultural trailer in upgraded versions to their collection.
